PILE REMEDY.

Piles—What unceasing tortures arise from Internal Bleeding, External and Itching Piles. The vain endeavors to obtain even partial relief has discouraged the millions who suffer, and they have borne their agony in silence, thinking there was no hope or prospect of a cure. Notwithstanding the total failure of the many remedies heretofore offered for the cure of piles, and the picture of agony resting on the face of those who have tried the various remedies but in vain yet eagerly sought for and anxiously tried anything that promises the least relief until their courage has long since given place to despondency, let them cheer up, for the sunshine of happiness to illuminate the haggard countenance, and the duties of life will be performed with a degree of happiness and pleasure unknown for weeks, months or years. Briggs' Pile Remedies are the result of unceasing study and experimenting, the most difficult of medical science, and in every respect safe, scientific and reliable for the cure of piles in every form. Briggs' remedies are sold by C. A. Klein, Bloomsburg, Pa.

$1,000 REWARD

CATARRH is the most universal and distressing disease of the present day, and the makers of wonderful remedies offered for the cure of this disgusting disease, which are worse than worthless has discouraged the millions who suffer and have tried in vain for relief and cure until their courage is gone and the victim still suffers in doubt. Here we are with Dr. Josiah Briggs' Catarrh Specifics Nos 1 and 2, and how can we proceed to convince that we have the best and cheapest remedies known. 1st—We will furnish them to responsible parties on condition—"no cure no pay." 2nd—Will pay $500 for a case they will not cure. 3rd—Will pay $100 for their equal as a cure. 4th—Will pay $500 if anything poisonous or deleterious is found in their composition. 5th—Will pay $1,000 if in any particular Dr. Josiah Briggs Catarrh Specifics are found different from representation. Warranted to instantly relieve and radically cure Acute, Chronic, Ulcerative or Dry Catarrh, Cold in the Head, and all affections of the cavities of the head and throat. Two bottles in one box. Greatest success of the age. Sold by C. A. Klein, Bloomsburg, Pa.

BUNION BALSAM.

Bunions, Corns and other ailments of the feet cause much suffering among all nations by whom shoes are worn. There is more than $100,000 worth of boots and shoes destroyed annually in the United States (in the rest of the world more than $1,000,000) by cutting while new, or nearly so, to make room for painful bunions, corns, ingrowing nails, sore insteps, etc. Besides the great suffering, there is paid in New York to chiropodists about $2,000 annually; in New England states about $75,000; in the western and southern about $50,000; and in the rest of the world about $250,000. Besides this there is $500,000 spent annually for caustics and other worthless compounds for the cure of bunions, corns, sore insteps, tender feet, etc. To avoid these great losses and expenditures, use Dr. Josiah Briggs' Bunion Balsam and Sure Corn Cure, which is the only preparation known that gives immediate relief and radically cures hard, soft and ulcerated Bunions hard, soft and festered corns, vascular excrescences, callosities large and small, sore insteps, blistered heels, tender feet, ingrowing nails, etc., without causing or leaving any pain or soreness. Warranted safe and sure. Sold by C. A. Klein, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Read and Reflect.

Local and constitutional treatment for all Catarrhal affections. Dr. Josiah Briggs' Catarrh specifics are offered to those afflicted with acute, chronic, ulcerative or dry catarrh, cold in the head, hay fever, relaxed palate, sore throat, hoarseness, loss of voice, and all affections of the nasal cavities and throat, with a guarantee that they are cheaper, better, more efficacious, curing quicker, with more certainty, and more agreeable to use than any remedy yet discovered. Two bottles in one box, one of which reduced with water makes 64 ounces for one. Price $1.00 per package, furnished to responsible parties on conditions "No cure no pay." Dealers are authorized to refund the money if purchasers are not satisfied. The specifics are constitutional as well as local. $100 will be paid if they fail to cure when used as directed. $100 for their equal as a cure. $500 if anything poisonous or deleterious is found in their composition. $1,000 (will be paid if in any respect Dr. Briggs' Catarrh Specifics are found different from representations. Such an unequivocal offer! Those discouraged by repeated failures to try again on a guaranteed cure. And the timid who fear deception may venture to try these specifics without feeling that they are to be humbugged, as there is no risk to run. Warranted cheapest, best and most agreeable. If not found satisfactory demand your money and it will be refunded. Sold by C. A. Klein, Bloomsburg, Pa

SIMMONS' LIVER DISEASE and indigestion prevail to a greater extent than probably any other malady, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the LIVER is regulated in its action health is almost invariably secured. Indigestion or want of action in the liver causes Headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth, Bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is the best remedy that has ever been discovered for these ailments. It acts mildly, effectually, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for forty years, and hundreds from all parts of the country vouch for its virtues, among them Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, of Georgia; Bishop Pierce, of Georgia; John Gill Shorter, ex-Governor of Alabama; Gen. John B Gordon, R. L. Mott, of Columbus, Georgia, are among the hundreds to whom we can refer. Ex-Vice President Stephens, dated March 8, 1872: "I occasionally use when my condition requires it, Dr. Simmons' Liver Regulator, with good effect. It is mild, and suits me better than more active medicines."

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

It is not the quality eaten that gives strength, life, blood and health. It is the thorough digestion of the food eaten that does it. It is much or little. Therefore do not stimulate up the stomach to crave food, but rather assist digestion after eating by taking

STRANGE BUT WONDERFULLY TRUE.

When Dr. Briggs with conscious pride,
And earnest zeal his mind applied,
The science deep to open wide,
Of soothing and of healing.

He took of many substances known
That would heal or still a groan,
And soon composed by skill alone
His miraculous Bunion Balsam.

Tormented with Bunion, Corn or Bruise,
Thousands of sufferers heard the news,
The remedy that meets the views is Dr. Briggs' Bunion Balsam.

From a Celebrated Physician of Harrisburg, Pa. Dr. Josiah Brigg, Dear Sir: Some four months since a lady applied to me for something to relieve the pain of a troublesome bunion and a festered corn, and having heard your Bunion Balsam highly spoken of, I directed her to call on your agent J. H. Boher, and get a box. She did so, and now informs me the cure is complete, she having suffered no pain after the first application. Believing Briggs' Bunion Balsam of great value to those who suffer from corns, bunions, &c., I unhesitatingly recommend it to the people of the country. Sold by C. A. Klein, Bloomsburg, Pa.

GARFIELD'S SONG.

James A. Garfield is my name, Ohio is my nation,
And all the stock I got from Ames was for a poor relation.
I did not keep a share myself, as can be clearly shown,
And when I got it from Oakes Ames I thought it was a loan.

I am a member of the Church, and I do swear right here
That I never got a single share of Credit Mobilier.
He tried his best to get me in, but I withstood temptation;
And if you doubt my word, my friends, why ask my congregation.

About that little paving check Detioiyer gave to me,
Upon my Bible I will swear I took it as a fee;
The only thing that troubled me or gave me any grief
Was, when they asked me for the proof, I could not find my brief.

About the tariff I would say to put your minds at rest,
I'm for protection in the East and free trade in the West.
My record, you will find, is good, as far as I remember;
And I ask you all to vote for me the second of November.

There's millions in it.

—From Progress.

GAREIELD TO HIS CONSTITUENTS.

You ask what agreement I made
In that De Golyer pavement case,
Remarking that you are afraid
That I may loose my present race,
Unless I now shall duly
Explain the matter truly,
As if conversing face to face.

I make an argument, I know,
For which I then received my fee,
I told you this some time ago;
But now it don't occur to me,
To state the point compactly,
Just what it was exactly,
Nor do the witnesses agree.

Of course I made an argument—
That is to say, I filed a brief;
That I should have received a cent
Without it, is beyond belief.
The pavement I had studied,
And once my boots I muddied
By walking on it, to my grief.

That brief, would measure—let me see,
Well, near about a half a cord;
I meant to earn that generous fee,
And did the best I could afford.
The fee! Why, Parsons paid it
The argument? I made it,
Before the virtuous District Board.

What was the argument? you ask,
In vain my memory I've ransacked,
And find it quite too hard a task
To bring to light one point or fact
Oh, yes, I cannot doubt it,
One day I spoke about it
To Shepherd, with my usual tact.

And that was all? Well, yes it was,
And it was quite enough to do,
No need to plead De'oiyer's cause,
For Shepherd was a man I knew,
And we two knew each other,
And there was no more bother,
But just to put the matter through.

Select Story.

MISS DEVERNEY'S HUSBAND.

Chester Vaughan loved Edna DeVerney. She was a high-bred, flattered city beauty, who had fled from fashionable follies for a short time to the quiet of an obscure Hempshire village. There a kind uncle and aunt received her with open hearts. They loved this city niece, she was warm hearted and impulsive, so unspoilt by flattery.

Who was Chester Vaughan? The engineer of the Mayflower, on the B. B. & G. Railroad, that took in its course the little village of Ashmount. He was one of the noblest men that ever received on his forehead the stamp of nature's royalty. With a tall form, straight, massive, powerful, yet graceful, a dark, hand some face, with wonderful magnetic eyes that had twice looked full into Miss DeVerney's, he looked, in spite of coal dust, a king among his fellows.

Viewed in the light of the gigantic thunderer, public opinion, he was shades and degrees lower than she. To the vision fine enough to discern souls, independent of the accident of birth or circumstances, he was her equal. Miss DeVerney was generous, truthful, high minded. So was Chester Vaughan. She had a warm, affectionate nature. He possessed the same in a high degree. She loved the fine and enjoyable in literature, and could melt into tears over a grand poem from pure sympathy and appreciation. He had the elements of genius in his own nature, could create what she only could appreciate. But he was only the engineer of the Mayflower, and She was Miss DeVerney, the heiress. Judge then, if he was not her equal.

We have said that his eyes had twice looked into hers. She was at the depot to meet some friends, and remarked the fine figure of the man as he stood on the platform. She had thought, 'What a grand looking man he would be in society,' and he had turned and looked into her face; she had felt a great thrill at her heart, such as no other pair of eyes had magnetism to send there. Was he not far beneath her? Away from city friends was she not becoming plebeian in her tastes? What right had he to look at her at all? But still those eyes in their wonderful depth and beauty haunted her.

He had known by the fine sense that discern souls that this woman was his mate, though he had seen her only twice. Miss DeVerney had known it in spite of smoke and grime and the iron walls of society—known that had he been in her circle he would have singled her out from the others and then she would have 'Sprung to him and known he was her own, not a smaller soul.'

Miss DeVerney loved nature. A fine, free element in her composition reached out instinctively and assimulated the unfettered, the unconventional. She knew no fear, and indeed in that peaceful locality there was cause for none.

One day she wandered further than usual. A strange confusion seized her and she sound that she was lost. She wandered around with growing alarm, and, at last, suspecting that she was moving in a circle sat down on a fallen log to collect her thoughts and rest her weary limbs. How helpless she felt. All her wealth was unavailable in an hour like this. The sun was declining and the evening twilight advancing. She felt the drowsiness of exhaustion stealing over her. She had enough presence of mind to try to shake it off and keep moving. Night closed in starlit and beautiful. Kept up by the force of her will she staggered on until she at last struck an open space. By the light of the full moon, now risen, she saw a road before her. She gained it, it was the railroad. But which way to go? She was perfectly bewildered,

'I shall not be able to keep up much longer,' she thought,' looking along the lengthy stretch of iron rails, 'and there are no houses in sight. I shall have to lie down and die.'

Hark! what was that sound? A train was advancing—distant yet, but every moment sounding nearer in the hush of the dreary autumn night. It was the train that reached Ashmont at 9 o'clock.

A feeling of terror superseded the passive state of exhaustion. She was on a section of the road that was bounded on both sides by a steep embankment. If she could only give some signal! She realized the awful death before her as she saw the gleaming headlight in the distance, and sank down in a dead faint on the track, her white wrap showing conspicuously against the dark ground in the clear moonlight.

It was the headlight of the 'Mayflower,' and Chester Vanhan's will was controlling the impatient, panting monster that seemed determined to overtake the woman he loved with swift destruction. The orders were to run slowly around the curve, and the speed was slackening when Chester Vaughan,on the look out, saw the white heap in the path of the engine where the road had the sharpest curve. Instantly a shrill whistle gave the signal to put on brakes, and the train came to a standstill just in time to save a life. He was on the ground in a moment, and there, not a foot from the engine, with her pale face showing in like marble in the lurid light, lay the motionless form of Miss DeVerney.

'Good heavens!' he uttered, as he raised her gently in his arms and carried her into one of the cars. 'A lady has fainted on the track,' he explained in cool tones to the excited crowd who come pouring from the passenger car.

Even in that moment he felt a secret thrill of exultation that for once this girl was entirely dependent upon him—that she had lain a brief moment close to his heart, when in sunshine she would not have allowed him to touch the tips of her dainty white fingers.

'She has only fainted: she is reviving now,' said a lady among the crowd who stood about.

The application of water and smelling salts restored consciousness, and, with a long-drawn sigh, she slowly opened her eyes to meet those magnetic ones of Chester Vaughn's, who stood opposite watching her. Even then he had the power to quicken all the wheels of her being. She looked in wonder.

'How came I here? Why, this is a railway car!' She passed her hand slowly over her forehead. 'Oh, yes, I remember; I was lost and wandered on the track—saw the terrible engine coming and then all was dark.'

She closed her eyes weakly, she was so utterly exhausted.

'Do you live at Ashmont?' asked the conductor.

'Yes, a quarter of a mile from the depot, at Mr. Browning's.'

'We will be there in a few minutes,' he said; 'try to keep as well as you can.'

Again the train was moving. The passengers fell back into their seats.

'She is a city lady,' said one who knew her face; 'rich they say, though I cannot vouch for the truth of it.'

'She is very beautiful,' said the gentleman addressed.

Edna leaned against the cushions and closed her eyes. Soon she aroused herself and spoke to a kind-looking lady who remained near her.

'How did they stop the train in time to save my life?'

'The engineer saw you on the curve; he's always on the lookout, you know, and gave the signal at once to stop. He carried you in his arms as gently as your mother might have done.'

So Chester Vaughn had carried her in! Somehow she felt glad that he had been the one to save her, and then chided herself with the thought, 'How foolish I am!'

In a few moments the train glided into the depot. Kind strangers assisted Edna into the ladies' room, and a messenger was despatched for her uncle. The good old people had been terribly alarmed at her continued absence, and had been sending around messengers in every direction. They both hastened to her in their old fashioned buggy, overjoyed that she was once more safe.

Waiting there, she thought, 'I must see him, and thank him for saving me.'

He came at her quest. His tall, well-proportioned form filled the doorway, and then, with the ease of a well-bred gentleman, he advanced hat in hand, and stood before her. As she looked at him, she thought, like Enid, "Was ever man so grandly made as he?'

'I want to thank you for saving me from a terrible death. I understand that you saw and stopped the train.'

He bowed.

'That act requires no thanks. I am thankful to have saved a life. I hope you are now feeling better.'

'I am, thank you. Tell me, was the engine very near to me?'

'Very near, indeed; half another revolution of the wheels would have—'

She closed her eyes with a shudder.

'I must be careful how I get lost again,' she said. 'I may not be so fortunate the next time.'

'Indeed you must be careful,' he returned.

The talk was here interrupted by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs Browning.

'Why, Edna, my child, we have been frightened to death about you,' said the old lady, flinging her arms around the girl's neck. 'Where in the world have you been?'

'Got lost, aunty, and wandered on the railroad track. I shouldn't have been here if hadn't been for that man,' pointing toward Chester.

'I've been all over the country after you,' said her uncle. 'Why—' and he turned to look at Chester—'it's Mr. Vaughan! It isn't possible that you have saved Edna?'

'It is, though,' said Edna, 'and I don't know how to feel grateful enough.'

'Look here, I don't believe you have been introduced. Mr. Vaughan; this is my niece, Miss DeVerney; this is my wife.' And then there was quite a little scene of grateful acknowledgment on one side, and disclaiming on the other. 'Well, we must be getting home,' said her uncle.

'Yes, Edna must have rest, and a bowl of my favorite herb tea,' said the kind aunt.

Edna reached out her small, white hand, and Chester took it in his large, firm palm. It was as shapely, if not so spotless, as her own. She hesitated a moment; surely this man was a gentleman.

'I should like to have you call and see me,' she said.

He hesitated.

'I should be happy to do so, but I have very little leisure.'

'Can't you come Sunday evening?'

'Yes, come by all means,' said the hearty voice of Mr. Browning; and the old lady added her invitation.

'I'll come,' he said, 'if possible.'

'Wonderful clever, this Chester Vaughan,' said Mr. Browning, when they were fairly seated in the buggy. 'Knows as much as the college chaps, and is going to get out a patent for some wonderful improvement or invention of some sort, they say. Don't know but it will make his fortune.'

'Well, he's the handsomest man I've set eyes on for many a day,' said the old lady.

'I shouldn't wonder if Edna were to fall in love with him,' chuckled her uncle. 'If I had a daughter I should be proud to own him for a son-in-law.'

Chester Vaughan did call on Miss DeVerney, and they were mutually pleased with each other. They found endless topics of conversation. She was surprised at the wonderful culture of his mind, the beautiful, original thoughts he expressed. She felt that he was far ahead of her intellectually.

'What avails all this sympathy of taste?' he thought, bitterly. 'I'm only an engineer, and she is rich Miss DeVerney.'

Edna had strange fits of musing. One evening, when she had spent half an hour gazing into vacancy, her uncle rallied her on her abstraction.

'Don't you expect Mr. Vaughan this evening?' he asked. 'I notice that he has power to brighten you up wonderfully. Confess now, Edna, wouldn't you marry him if he were in your 'set' as you call it?'

Edna never knew what impelled her to speak, but she answered promptly:

'I would marry him as he is, and call myself the happiest girl on earth, if he loved me, and asked me to do so.'

Chester Vaughan, just stepped over the low doorway in the purple twilight, heard the words with a glad thrill at his heart. He never paused, but stepping up to her, and, and in the presence of the wondering couple, said:

'I love you Edna. Will you be my wife?'

She had known what was in his heart for her from the first, and was not surprised. She put her hand in his, and answered, simply:

'Yes.'

The uncle and aunt shook hands with both heartily.

'Just what I've been hoping for,' said Mr. Browning. 'Bless me if I don't think Edna almost proposed the question herself!'

'Nonsense, uncle! I'm sure I had a real, straightforward proposal, in your hearing, too, haven't I?' turning to her lover.

'Certainly you have. But I'm too happy to discuss such trifles. I've won my wife—that is all I can realize.'

When the engagement was known, there was quite a flutter amongst Edna's fashionable friends.

'I always knew she would do some irregular thing, she's so strange,' said one.

'Quite a scandalous proceeding—to marry a sooty engineer!' said another.

But one day this paragraph appeared in a daily paper:

'Mr. Vaughan, who is likely to realize a handsome fortune by a wonderful invention in connection with the steam engine, is shortly to marry an heiress, Miss De Verney. We understand there was quite a romance attending his courtship.'

Miss De Verney's enoice rose in popular favor at once. In the refined and cultured circle there were no men more distinguished looking, more manly in the essential elements of manhood, than Mr. Chester Vaughan, the former engineer of the Mayflower on the B. B. & G. Railroad.

TWO BROTHERS REUNITED AFTER FIFTY YEARS' SEPARATION.

The Richmond (Va.) "Dispatch says: "On Saturday, the 21st of August, a stranger came here and made inquiries regarding the whereabouts of Mr. John Woodworth, a worthy farmer, who owns the place formerly the property of Lewis H. Frayser, esq., on the Williamsburg road, about four miles from the city. The stranger had the appearance of a well-to-do farmer, and was evidently not familiar with our localities. He however, soon found Mr. Woodworth at a stable on Eighteenth street, hitching up his team and getting ready to go home. He entered into conversation with Mr. Woodworth, asking him several questions, to which Mr. Woodworth, supposing him to be a sewing machine or light ning rod agent, returned evasive answers Presently, however, becoming more earnest in his manner, he startled his h

The Republican cannot even quote Judge Black truthfully. What he did say was that Garfield is one of the meanest politicians in the country.

The Democrats of Sullivan county have placed in nomination the following ticket: State Senate, B. R. Jackson, Prothonotary &c., C. C. Finch, Sheriff, James Deegan.

The unterrified Democracy were out in their strength to hear Baer, of Reading. We obtained that name for our party, because in the early history, the then opposition cringed in fear before Great Britain, we the Democratic party declared war for the protection of our sailors against the right of search, and were called the "unterrified Democracy." Show that you still deserve the name by resenting promptly every insult, no matter when or where. Private, personal and political rights let no man infringe upon. Do no wrong and submit to none.

HUGHES AND WEAVER.

In his contract with Jewell, Weaver was to prevent Maine from fusing with the Democrats on the Electoral ticket. The Greenback convention met and formed a fusion ticket, but Solon Chase and a few others bolted and got up a "straight" ticket whereupon Weaver sent the following dispatch to Chase.

MOUNT PLEASANT, W. Va,
September 23.

I congratulate you upon your straight forward courage in Maine. The Greenbackers of the United States will stand by you.

J. B. WEAVER.

Dennis Kearney also congratulated Chase by telegraph saying—"Victory by fusionists is defeat." So far the Jewell-Weaver Republican-Greenback sale seemed to work well; but the signs are now unmistakable that Weaver will not only be unable to deliver the goods he has sold, but that the unmarketable portion of his flock are making haste to withdraw from the auction, and they are revolting in Indiana where they will most fatally strike at those who are trading them off for cost or approved political promises. The first bolt was made by Mr. Harrington, Greenback candidate for Governor of Indiana in 1876, and Senator Davis of the Vigo district, both of whom publicly declared in favor of the Democratic State ticket on Monday last, and they were followed on Saturday by J. B. Yeagley, present Greenback candidate for Secretary of State, and Noah W. Parker, Greenback candidate for Senate in the Indianapolis district, declining the Greenback nominations they had accepted and avowing their purpose to defeat the Jewell-Weaver sale by supporting the Democratic ticket. These four men are among the most respected and trusted leaders of the Greenback party in Indiana, and they are likely to make the Weaver investment even more unprofitable in Indiana than it was in Maine.

And now Mr. Frank W. Hughes, the confessed leader of the Greenbackers in Pennsylvania, has put out his protest against the Weaver sale of the only electors the party has any prospect of securing. He sent the following dispatch to General Weaver last Monday.

POTTSVILLE, Sept. 27, 1880.

General J. B Weaver, National-Greenback Labor Candidate for President:

Your published congratulations to Solon Chase encourging, by approving his disorganization tending to the defeat of four electors for Weaver and Chambers in Maine and to ensure the election of seven Garfield and Arthur electors instead, forfeits your claims to the support of the organization It simply means that you desire our friends there, as well as elsewhere, to be defeated by the success of Garfield. National-Greenback-Labor men are such from principle and therefore not marketable by any leaders.

F. W. HUGHES.

Mr. Hughes is one of the ablest and best of the Greenback party. Weaver has replied to him calling him a "Slanderer and Calumniator," but by no means disproving Mr Hughes' charges.

REPUBLICANS AND THE TARIFF.

The republican party has never been a distinctively tariff party. It was originally made up of dissatisfied elements of the then existing parties, and its motive power was opposition to slavery. In nothing else did its coalescing elements agree, and on no other basis could that party have been organized. Its organizers and leaders were mainly free traders, and it is a significant fact that in the platform of the first republican convention that ever assembled, June 17, 1856, not one word about tariff, or protection to to American industry was inserted. If any such thing had been attempted, it would have dissolved the assembly, and the party now calling itself Republican would have no existence.

In the convention of 1860 the most they can do is to say "that while providing revenue for the support of the general government by duties on imports sound policy requires such adjustment of these imports as to encourage the development of the industrial interest of the whole country"—but not one word about protection, upon which they pretend to have a patent.

In 1864, the subject is not even mentioned—but they resolve in favor of a vigorous system of taxation. In the matter of vigorous taxation the republican party has always been strong, as the people who have groaned under the burdens of the plunderers have good reason to know and remember.

Nor do we find in the platform of 1868, one word upon the question of a tariff, or a syllable in favor of protection to American industry! Dumb as an oyster, this party of shams and pretensions continues its career of duplicity.

In 1872 they for a moment recur to the subject and say "The details of which should be so adjusted as to aid in securing remunerative wages of labor and promote the industries, prosperity and growth of the whole country." But there is no protection, it is only a revenue tariff, and what there is of it is buried amongst a mass of words. In 1876 the words are "promote the interests of American labor and advance the prosperity of the whole country." So the bottom has fallen out of the great American system and the cheat and the fraud continue.

In 1880, this same party, in whose platforms the word Protection as connected with the tariff never occurs, nominates James A. Garfield, a free trader, an honorary member of the English Free Trade Cobden Club, and attempts again to deceive the people of Pennsylvania into the belief that it is a tariff party. And now in 1880 the most they can say is, "that the duties levied for the purpose of revenue should so discriminate as to favor American labor."

And the record shows that this party of false pretensions and false practices never dared to put into its platform PROTECTION to American labor, and was not and is not in favor of it as a political principle.

And to prove that they are not, they have put a man in nomination whose record is as follows:

FOREIGN COAL.

On the 13th of March, 1871, the following joint resolution was passed by the House of Representatives:

"Be it enacted, etc., That from and after the passage of this joint resolution no tax or duty shall be levied or collected on foreign coal."

On the passage of this resolution General Garfield voted aye.—See Congressional Globe Part I., 42d Congress, P. 82.

During the debate in the House on the above bill, March 10, 1871 General Garfield said:

"But I desire to ask gentlemen whether, considering the odium that the whole tariff has to bear in consequence of this duty on coal, they think it wise to perpetuate this tax, which is of so little value either to the country or the treasury. I think it unwise to continue this duty on coal and I am therefore in favor of its repeal."—Congressional Globe, Part, I, 1st session, 42nd Congress p. 59.

The Hon. W. D. Kelley and all other members of Congress in favor of protection voted against this joint resolution repealing the duty on coal.

FOREIGN IRON, &c.

During the first session of the Thirty-eighth Congress the tariff on pig iron was raised from $6 to $9 per ton. On page 3312 Part IV, of the Congressional Globe of 1864, June 27th, we find James A. Garfield voting to reduce the proposed tariff on railroad iron from eighty down to sixty cents per hundred pounds, and on the final vote on raising the tariff his vote is not recorded. On the reduction of duty on railroad iron he voted in opposition to every protective man in the House, including such men as Judge Kelley Thaddeus Stevens and General J. K. Morehead. In 1870 the duty of $9 per ton on pig iron was reduced to $7 per ton. General Garfield voted for the reduction. In 1872 a bill making a reduction of ten per cent. in the duties on wools, iron and steel passed Congress. This bill provided:

"That on and after the first day of August 1872, in lieu of the duties imposed by law on the articles in this section enumerated there shall be levied, collected and paid on the goods, wares and merchandise in this section enumerated and provided for imported from foreign countries, ninety per centum of the several duties and rates of duty now imposed by law upon said articles severally, it being the intent of this section to reduce existing duties on said articles ten percentum of such duties, that is to say:

* * * * * * *

"On all woods."

"On all iron and steel, and on all manufactures of iron and steel, of which metals, or either of them, shall be the component part of the chief value, excepting cotton machinery."

The vote of General Garfield on the passage of this tariff bill on June 6th, 1872, will be found in the Congressional Globe, Part V 2nd session 42nd Congress, p. 3652. It is recorded yea.

Thus it will be seen that General Garfield voted in favor of every reduction of the tariff on foreign iron during the last sixteen years.

VIEWS ON FREE TRADE.

In a debate on the tariff question in the House of Representatives, on July 10, 1866 39th Congress, General Garfield said:

"I am willing as a compromise to favor the reduction of the proposed duty on railroad iron, and I presume the committee on railroads will agree with me in this. I think we should also reduce the proposed duty on salt and I have no doubt in several other particulars we will reduce the rate of duty."

Mr. Thaddeus Stevens replied with this question:

"Why not come out honestly and accept the proposition of the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. Wilson. who favored a tariff for revenue only] which is a much more ingenuous one?"

To which Garfield responded that

"Against the abstract doctrine of free trade as such very little can be said. As a theory there is much to commend it. But it can never be applied to values except in time of peace"

On April 1, 1870, the following debate took place in the House of Representatives between General Garfield and Hon. W. D. Kelley of Philadelphia:

"Mr. Garfield: As an abstract theory of political economy free trade has many advocates and much can be said in its favor; nor will it be denied that the scholarship of modern times is largely on that side; that a large majority of the great thinkers of the present day are leading in the direction of what is called free trade.

See appendix to Congressional Globe 2nd session, 41st Congress, p. 268.

REPUDIATED BY CONGRESSMEN FROM PENNSYLVANIA.

In 1877 when General Garfield was the nominee of the Republican caucus for Speaker of the House of Representatives, a considerable portion of the Republican members of the Pennsylvania delegation refused to support him on the ground that his position on the tariff question was inimical to the interests of Pennsylvania. Prominent among them were Messrs. Errett and Bayne, of Pittsburgh, and Mr. Killinger, of the Dauphin district. The last named in explanation of his refusal to support Garfield for the speakership addressed the following letter to the Philadelphia Times, which was duly published in that journal:

To the Editor of the Philadelphia Times:

In reply to the inquiry, I will say that in the vote for Speaker, we chose the lesser of the two evils. We could not elect the Speaker, and the only significance our action had was its indication of expression of confidence in the nominee on the great and vital question of protection to our industries and employment for our laborers. In my judgment all questions are subordinate to this. When, therefore, the caucus determined to compliment Mr. Garfield in this way I had to choose between sanctioning by my vote such an action or to express my dissent by with holding it. Mr. Garfield's record on this question is well known to the country, and some of it has come under my own observation. I could not therefore, pass it by as insignificant or unimportant. Without meaning any disrespect to him I am compelled to say that his status has been equivocal, if not actually hostile, to the opinions we hold in Pennsylvania. I have never found him to stand squarely for protection. He would not be accepted by the Republicans of my district as an exponent of their views, and I could not compliment him with their vote for the speakership without manifest inconsistency and doing violence to all my convictions of duty and principle. No friend of American system of revenue and finance has ever been complimented with honorary membership in the British free trade leagues. The object of these leagues is well known to be the strengthening of British influence in foreign countries. They aim to secure markets here for British manufactures, and to that end are hostile to our home industries. In common with William C. Bryant, Samuel S. Cox and D. A. Wells, notorious free traders, Mr Garfield stands in connection with such a league. So long as he retains such connections and does not disavow its pernicious heresies, I do not see how to acquit him of holding the opinions of British co-laborers. It needed some resolution to express our dissent from the conclusions reached by the caucus. The Republican organization should be maintained by the party's representatives, especially at this juncture, when we are threatened with disintegration in high quarters. But unless we can at the same time maintain the principles which gave value and vitality to the organization, party ties will weaken and our early dissolution is certain. So I chose the lesser of the two evils in withholding the vote of the Fourteenth district from a nominee who fails to be in accord with its people on the greatest question before the country.

J. W. KILLINGER

WASHINGTON, October 17, 1877.

Notwithstanding these facts General Garfield, when confronted by certain protectionists in his own State last winter, when he was a candidate before the Ohio Legislature for United States Senator, denied that he was in favor of free trade and claimed to be as good a protectionist as any body. During the last session of Congress, as a member of the committee of ways and means, he acted with the obstructionists in that committee and assisted in thwarting the efforts of those who strove for the repeal of the odious duties on wood pulp, printing paper and salt. His record is that of a free trader when the interests of Pennsylvania were concerned in protection and of a protectionist when the interests of the whole people demanded that prohibitory duties should be reduced or repealed. Well might Thaddeus Stevens address to him the question already quoted, "Why not come out honestly?" &c.

GENERAL SICKLES IN LINE.

General Sickles, who for some years past has been acting with the Republican party, made a speech in New York last week in which he said:

"Many years have passed, many important events in the history of our country have transpired, since I last had the pleasure to receive the greetings of my old friends of the Third Congressional District. I thank you for your visit. It recalls the generous confidence of a constituency I was proud to represent in the Councils of the State and of the Republic. When a sense of duty impelled me to offer my services in the defence of the Union, the regiments I raised were largely filled by voters who had given me their suffrages in successive elections. And I found that good voters made good soldiers. Although withdrawn for some time past from any prominent part in politics, I cannot be an indifferent spectator of a Presidential canvass in which a distinguished and esteemed comrade is named for the highest office in the gift of the country he has so brilliantly served. No one need be afraid to confide the Presidency to a soldier who fought for the Union as Hancock fought. Among all the illustrious men who have been called to the Chief Magistracy none have more commended themselves to the favor of the people by a scrupulous adherence to the best traditions of our public life. Unused to the arts of a politician, separated by his profession from political organizations and never seeking office, his nomination by a vote that represented all parts of a reunited country is a pledge of fraternal feeling that will become a guarantee of peace and union in his election. The wiser opinion of the day is against sectional politics. Enjoying universal tranquility and prosperity, appeals to old sectional animosities are offensive to the good feeling and common sense of the people.

"New York desires cordial relation with all her sister States," the General continued; "and accepting Southern support of Hancock as a fresh bond of union; 'solid' support is proof of 'solid' loyalty. I know Gen. Hancock. He will do his duty. Politicians will not control him. Neither factions nor sections will intimidate him. He will execute the laws of the land with all their safeguards and guarantees, without fear or favor. The support he receives in the South rebukes if it does not silence geographical prejudices. And if the North refused its favor to one of the greatest of its commanders the reproach of ingratitude that would rest upon us, might challenge unwelcome comparisons with our late adversaries. The North is not ungrateful. Gettysburg deserves to name a President, and Hancock impersonates Gettysburgh."

Agents and Canvassers make from $25 to $50 per week selling goods for E. G. Rideout & Co., 10 Barclay street, New York. Send for their catalogue and terms. sep. 10, '80-1y

There were 50,000 men in the Hancock procession in New York last week, and not less than 150,000 people listened to the speeches during the evening. Senator Bayard, Daniel Dougherty, Ben Hill, and others made speeches.

While Garfield was voting to reduce the tariff on iron, and to abolish it on coal, Samuel J. Randall was voting to maintain the tariff on both. Actions speak louder than words. Let us have done with shams and false pretenses, and bring the republican party to the record.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM HANCOCK.

THE REBEL WAR CLAIMS.

One of the heavy arguments of the republicans against the election of General Hancock is that if successful, he will permit the payment of the rebel war claims, amounting to an immense sum. The following correspondence shows Hancock's position on this subject. Of course his letter will make no difference with the organs and speakers, who will go right on in the same way as though his letter had never been written. But the masses of the people know that he means what he says, and the wailings of the opposition over this last nail in their coffin will not change the inevitable result.

Mr. Theodore Cook, Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Hamilton county, in Ohio, wrote to Gen. Winfield S. Hancock on Sept. 20 the following letter:

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 20 '80

Gen. W. S. Hancock, Governor's Island N. Y.

DEAR SIR:—I enclose slips cut from the Gazette and Commercial of this city, both of them newspapers of large circulation and influence in Ohio and Indiana, referring, as you will see, to the much-harped-upon subject in our politics of rebel claims.

These newspapers and republican stump-speakers are constantly asserting that if you are elected President the claims of disloyal people of the South for losses sustained in the war will be allowed and paid by the United States. They further direct special attention to the fact that this charge has been made against the Democratic party, and that you, its candidate for President, have not denied it. This warefare is made in all seriousness and maintained with great earnestness, and repeated day after day in the press and in speeches. You are known to the country as a frank, honest soldier, now the representative of the Democratic party, and having a right to speak for it. What ever you may say the people will hear and believe. I submit the matter to your good judgment, as to what you should say, or whether you should make any public utterance at all. Very respectfully yours.

THEODORE COOK.

Gen. Hancock sent to Mr. Cook the following reply.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, }
NEW YORK, Sept. 23 1880. }

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of the 20 inst. has been received.

I regret that you are disturbed about the effect of that bugbear, "Southern War Claims." The people cannot be misled by it. To suppose that "Rebel Claims," or claims in the interest of persons who were in the rebellion, can in any way or in any degree be countenanced, is an imputation of disloyalty such as used to be made against Democrats even when they were in arms defending the country. So far as it touches me, I denounce it. The Government can never pay a debt or grant a pension or reward of any sort for waging war against its own existence; nor could I be induced to approve or encourage payment of such debt, pension, or reward. Nobody expects or wants such unnatural action. To propose it would be an insult to the intelligence and honor of our people. When rebellion was crushed the heresy of secession in every form and in every incidence went down forever. It is a thing of the dead past. We move forward not backward. If I were President I would veto all legislation which might come before me providing for the consideration or payment of claims of any kind for losses or damages by persons who were in rebellion, whether pardoned or not.

In relation to "Union War Claims," the Government's obligations to its defenders come first. They are lasting and sacred. The public laws do not in general recognize claims for injuries to property resulting from the operations of war. Nevertheless, our Government has treated with great indulgence the claims for losses and damages suffered by Union men from the military operations of the war for the Union. But as hostilities were closed more than fifteen years ago, claims of that nature—now mostly in the hands of brokers or persons other than the original sufferers—are becoming stale, and in my judgment might fairly be considered as barred by the lapse of time, and if hereafter entertained at all, should be subjected to the strictest scrutiny.

Yours, very truly,
WINFIELD S. HANCOCK.

How She Saved her Darling.

"I shall never again feel so awfully nervous about my babies teething," writes a grateful mother. We almost lost our little darling by a long attack of cholera infantum, but happily heard of Parker's Ginger Tonic in time. I took a few spoonsfuls myself, which soon cured my nursing baby entirely, and an occasional dose has kept me and baby in such perfectly good health, and made us so strong and comfortable that I would not be without this reliable medicine for worlds."
—A Mother of Brooklyn.

The republicans are not searching for letters from General Hancock as much as they were. They have already found too many.

It should be the aim of every owner of Horses, Cows, &c., to make them as handsome and useful as possible. The German Horse and Cow Powder helps to develop all the powers of the animal. It improves its beauty and increases its usefulness. It makes milk, mucle and fat. By using it a horse will do more work and a cow give more milk and be in better condition with less feed. Clinton Hall's "Strategists" is said to be the most exquisite comedy produced in years. It ran two months last season in New York to crowded houses. At the Opera House Wednesday, October 6th.

A Greenback meeting was held on Market Square last Monday night, and addressed by J. B. Robison, Esq. There was a small attendance and no enthusiasm, the discussion of financial questions not being a very entertaining one for a campaign crowd. Now that the hard times are over, the people cannot see the necessity of a party whose principles are confined to the simple question as to what kind of money we shall have.

According to our exchanges, "Clinton Hall's Strategists deals out fun in solid chunks for two and one-half hours." It would seem as though this ought to satisfy the average theatre goer. But we understand Mr. Hall has introduced new and elegant music for this season which will add still more to the rich treat the comedy now affords.

The Camp Fire of the Grand Army of the Republic, at the fair grounds last week, was well attended, there being a large crowd present on Saturday afternoon and evening. Dancing, pigeon shooting, racing, base ball and other amusements were on the programme. The fireman's trumpet to be given to the company raising the most money, was won by the Winonas.

LAST DAY FOR PAYING TAXES.

Saturday October 2nd is the last day for the payment of tax to entitle a voter to his right to vote on election day. Every Democrat should personally see the tax collector of his ward or township and make sure of the payment of his tax. No man should allow himself to be deprived of the right to vote for the paltry sum of tax due the country.

There was a reunion of Thomas J. Hutchison's family, of Fishingcreek township, last Monday, his 77th birthday. His three sons and two daughters with their families and a number of neighbors were present. After partaking of a sumptuous dinner, the pastor, in a brief address, presented in behalf of the children, the aged couple with two valuable chairs, and closed his remarks with prayer. The honor shown this aged pair was appreciated as well as merited. And the children were no less gratified at seeing the pleasure it afforded their parents. Thus ended another happy family reunion—shadow of a happier family reunion in our Heavenly Father's House. A. H.

On Saturday, September 25, 1880, the following named persons were duly naturalized in open court court:

John Eliot, Michael Crane, Francis Finn, John Curran, Patrick Lavelle, William J. Nash, John Nurtney, James Curran, James Kelly, Richard Griffith, John McGinley, Patrick Kane, Henry Nash, Robert P. Jones, Jacob Pollad.

All of them are comparatively young men, and quiet, orderly and most gentlemanly in their behavior and appearance; and we are informed all for Hancock.

"There has been nothing produced this winter in any theatre in the city of Baltimore, which so richly merits public approbation as the 'Strategists.' Of all the mirth provoking, side-splitting, farcical comedies ever written this takes the lead. Last night the house was packed, jammed from pit to dome with a fashionable audience. Scarcely had the curtain rose when laughter broke forth loud and full, rising as the play went on to a roar, a tempest, and culminating in one grand peal, one mighty effort of the thunder of human throats as the curtain went down on the last act that shook the noble edifice from turret to foundation stone. This very act stamps the 'Strategists' as one of the best comedies of the day.—Baltimore Herald.

At the Opera House, Bloomsburg, on Wednesday, October 6th.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, whose hand we recognize in all things, and to whose will we humbly and submisively bow to take from amongst us our esteemed and beloved friend and sister, Clora Barkley; be it therefore,

Resolved, That we are deeply sensible of the great loss which the community in which she lived, the society to which she belonged, the church with which she was connected, and especially the family of which she was a member have sustained.

Resolved, That by her death we have lost a friend, whose amiable disposition, dignity of character, purity of manners, and all the estimable qualities which belonged to her as a lady, commanded the respect and admiration of all who knew her and made her an example worthy of emulation. That as a Society, we have lost a faithful, an active and intelligent worker.

Resolved, That we profoundly sympathize with the family of our departed friend and sister in their great bereavement, that these resolutions be entered among the records of the society, and published in the county papers, and that a copy of the same be tendered to the family of the deceased

Resolved, That the Callipeian Hall be draped in mourning for thirty days.

CONGRESSIONAL CONFERENCE OF THE ELEVENTH DISTRICT.

The Congressional conference of the Democratic party of this district met at the Exchange Hotel in this town on Tuesday last. Major Klotz and the Carbon and Luzerne delegation arrived on Monday, Geo. H. Rowland and the other delegations reaching here on Tuesday morning. Below we give a full report of the proceedings.

The meeting was called to order at one o'clock p. m. in Parlor A, and Dr. R. Leonard, of Carbon county, was chosen temporary chairman. On taking his seat he made some appropriate remarks. Philip V. Weaver, of Hazleton, E. Dunbar, of Monroe county and Rohr McHenry, of Columbia, were elected Secretaries. The list of Conferees was called and answered as follows:

John S. Lentz, Dr. R. Leonard, John H. Arner,	Carbon county.
Dr. J. K. Robbins, Rohr McHenry, B. F. Fruit,	Columbia county.
D. P. Barton, P. A. Barrett, P. F. Moore,	Lackawanna county.
W. W. Smith, Edward Treston, P. V. Weaver, substitute for D. C. Koons,	Luzerne county.
E. Dunbar, B. Mansfield, Joseph Fehr,	Monroe county.
J. C. Rhodes, M. D. L. Seehler, Emanuel Sidler,	Montour county.
John M. Williamson, Lafayette Rowland, Henry Dewitt,	Pike county.

The seats of the Lackawanna delegation were contested by A. B. Dunning, C. M. Page, and Humphry Bradley. B. F. Fruit moved that a committee of three be appointed on contested seats, which was carried and the chair appointed B. F. Fruit, W. W. Smith and Joseph Fehr, as such committee. A committee on permanent organization, consisting of Edward Treston, B. Mansfield, J. C. Rhodes, Dr. J. K. Robbins and Lafayette Rowland was appointed, and the conference took a recess of half an hour.

After the recess, the committee on contested seats made the following report:

We the committee, appointed to investigate the claims of the contestants in Lackawanna county, report that we have decided that the conferees headed by D. P. Barton are duly entitled to their seats in this convention.

The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The Democracy of the 11th Congressional district contained within the limits of Lackawanna county, have sent to this conference, two sets of conferees, one representing F. A. Beamish and his associates, and the other D. P. Barton and his associates, and

WHEREAS, F. A. Beamish and his associates, of Lackawanna county, having left the regular Democratic organization of said county, and through the chairman in 1879 transferred their organization to other parties, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we the Congressional conferees of the 11th Congressional district, representing the Democracy of said district, do hereby recognize the conferees appointed by the convention as represented by A. A. Chase as chairman, viz: D. P. Barton and associates, as the representative and regular Democracy of Lackawanna county, and call upon all Democrats in said county to support their organization and thus to discountenance traitors to the party and bolters of the regular Democratic organization.

The committee on permanent organization reported in favor of the election of the temporary officers for permanent officers, and the report was adopted.

Nominations being declared in order, Robert Klotz, of Carbon; Dr. O. A. Megargell, of Columbia; and Geo. H. Rowland, of Pike, were named. On the first ballot Klotz received 15 votes, being all the conferees but those of Columbia, who voted for Rowland. The chair declared Major Klotz the nominee of the Democratic party for the Eleventh Congressional district. On motion of Dr. J. K. Robbins, the nomination was made unanimous.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That a Congressional committee be appointed to consist of one committeeman from each county or part of a county, who shall have power to name the time and place of holding the Congressional conference for this district, and the time and place shall be announced before September 1st of each year; and further, that the time named shall not be later than September 10th, and provided further that at least ten days notice be given before the meeting of the conference.

In pursuance of this resolution the following committee was appointed: Samuel B. Price Luzerne; John Taylor, Carbon; B. F. Fruit, Columbia; D. P. Barton, Lackawanna; Jonas Altemus, Monroe; M. D. L. Seehler, Montour; M. D. Mott, Pike.

A committee was appointed to wait upon Major Klotz, and inform him of his nomination. He came before the conference and in a very neat speech, thanked them for the honor conferred upon him. He spoke of his past efforts in behalf of his constituents, promised to use his every effort in the future in their interests. His remarks were loudly applauded. The conference then adjourned.

Immediately afterward the Congressional committee met and elected S. B. Price as Chairman, and John Taylor, Secretary.

This conference is the first one since the formation of this district that has not had a stormy session. Here everything was harmonious, and the result was received with great satisfaction to everybody. Major Klotz has made an active and energetic representative, and in returning him to his seat the people are simply rewarding a faithful servant.

If you are troubled with deranged kidneys delay not, but get one of Prof. Guilmette's French Kidney Pads and you will be cured.

The performance of Prof. Cecil was well attended. He gave two entertainments and the committees appointed to watch him were unable to detect his deception. When he showed openly how it was all done, it became very simple. His tricks are a complete exposure of spiritualistic imposters.

When you go into the Post office, cast your eye through the delivery window and you will see Mr. Garfield with this inscription immediately under him. "For sale here. Price 25 cents." This is a very low price for such a man as they claim him to be. It is much less than republican candidates for sheriff are sold for in that office. But after November 2nd the price will be still further reduced.

The firemens' parade on Saturday was a success. The band in their elegant uniforms, the Friendship and Rescue companies with their carriages handsomely decorated, and fine apparel, made an imposing spectacle. The Winonas did not appear, as they have not yet obtained uniforms. We have every reason to be proud of our fire department.

The Republican has discovered what none of the leading dailies seem to have heard of, that is that there is a "wonderful stampede of loyal Democrats in the North toward Garfield." Just for fun, suppose it names a few of them.

DOEBLER.—In Williamsport, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Bonnell, on Tuesday, September 28th, Mrs. Mary Doebler, relict of Charles Doebler, in the eighty-sixth year of her age.

Nobody was better known or more kindly remembered in this community than Mrs. Doebler. The Hostess of the leading hotel in this town a generation ago, her admirable management of its domestic and housekeeping departments, made it the stopping place of nearly every person whose pleasure or business brought him to Bloomsburg. Long after the period allotted to human life, after several of her children and her husband had departed, she remained. But the grim messenger who comes for all, came for her. She was buried in Rosemont Cemetery, in this place on Thursday by the side of her husband. Requiescat in pace.

The A. S. T. Co's. Black Tip for children's shoes, advertised in another column, will be found to wear as long as the metal, and add to the beauty of the finest shoe. Parents who have tried them will have no other.

AN IMMENSE ENGINE.

Logan colliery, at Centralia, operated by Lentz, Reily, & Lilley, is being supplied with an immense double hoisting engine of 600 horse power. An idea of its size and power may be had when we give a few of its dimensions, as follows: Cylinders, 26 inches bore and 4 feet stroke. Each bedplate weighs 9,310 pounds. The hoisting drum is a bubble cone joined at the bases, and running from 7 to 6 feet in diameter, with a length of 15 feet and carrying 48 laps on each cone. It will hoist 20 tons on a 35 degree pitch, at the rate of 1,500 feet per minute. It is furnished with the latest improved vertical indicator, to inform the engineer where his carriage is at any time, and has a steam brake, which will hold the engine with both the steam and car on. Other improvements have also been introduced, among which are notable a mode of taking up lost motion in the the eccentric rod boxes, with a taper bolt and screw, instead of the old fashioned gib and key. Solid steel reverse link with an admirable arrangement, prevent the lost motion at this important point. The crank pins are set at the alternate quarter stock, so that it is impossible to strike the engines on the centres. The whole machine will weigh between 26 and 28 tons. About a month will be required to set it up and start it.—Ashland Advocate.

The squeak of the organ over the way this week over Hancock's "Rebel claims" letter, is truly amusing. It has been asserting all along that he would pay these claims if elected. When he defines his position by knocking the wind out of his calumniators, it has just breath enough left to say that this "shows the true character of the Democratic party when its candidate in order to stay the tide against him in the north, must write a letter" refuting the lies of the opposition.

REPUBLICANS FOR HANCOCK.

The conservative republicans of New York city held a meeting at Chickering Hall last Friday night. Mr. L. W. Jerome presided. An address was read which had been prepared in explanation of the views of the conservative republican and independent voters.

The address was an elaborate statement of the reasons why the conservative Republicans cannot support the Chicago nominees. The first reason was the objection to the sectional arguments and issues which have been used by republicans for the last sixteen years. On this point it said: "Now, if the entire credit of subduing the rebellion is due the Republican party, where are we to place Gens. Hooker, Butler, McClellan, Thomas, Sickles, Slocum, McPherson, McDowell, Rosecrans, Heinzelman, Farmer, Hilyard, Meade, Scott, Pope, Franklin, Lew Wallace, Hazen, Gibson, Phil Kearney, Stedman, Crittenden, E. S. Bragg, Banning, Rice, Mason, Slack, Roseau, Jeff. C. Davis, Morgan of Ohio, Ward, Love, McGregor, Lytel, McCook, Ewing, Blair, Couch, Houck Smith, Shields, Durbin, Ward, Sigel, Corse, Emroy, Stone, Meagher, Mulholland, St. Clair, Cochran, and Gen. Hancock, all of whom entered the war as Democrats, besides hundreds of colonels, captains, and lieutenants, the majority of whom remain Democrats to this day?" [Great applause.] The words of General Grant were quoted to show the loyalty of the South, as seen by him on his recent visit. Gen. Grant said: "We have no reason to doubt but those who wore the gray will fulfill all they have promised in loyalty to the flag and the nation."

The claim made by republicans that the success of the Democratic nominees would disturb the welfare and prosperity of the country was disputed, and the character of Gen. Hancock was argued as a guarantee that his administration would secure national peace and happiness.

The second reason given for the unwillingness to support the Chicago nominees was that they do not come up to the high standard of character. In support of this reason were given the various proofs of Garfield's corruption that have been furnished by the Republican press. The charges of perjury and of accepting bribes were specially noted as unworthy of the candidate of any party. The address noted especially the failure of Garfield to reply to these accusations as in itself damning evidence that they are well founded. The failure of the republican press to properly meet the overwhelming evidence against their candidate was commented upon as a cofession of judgment. The address quoted many of the damning attacks made upon Garfield by the republican press in past years. It quoted the evidence of Garfield's corruption in the De Golyer contract busiess, and sums up his character as follows.

"We think a fair and just review of Gen. Garfield's career in congress proves him to be a man whose professions concerning measures are almost always inconsistent with his actions; that he is without fixedness of purpose or stability of character; in short, a political trimmer, who, if President, would be controlled by the most reckless and objectionable leaders of his party.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C. Sep. 25th, 1880.

STRAINING AT DEMOCRATIC GNATS AND SWALLOWING REPUBLICAN CAMELS—THEY HAVE AT LENGTH HEARD FROM MAINE AND ARE NOW AFRAID THEY WILL HEAR FROM OHIO.

It appears that the Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee in Washington has franked through the mails, as campaign literature, some speeches made by ex-congressmen and ex-senators who are not entitled to franking priviliges. If it were not a mistake, as he claims, it would be a crime for him to do so, but, when we remember that the Republicans are doing the same thing on a much larger scale; when we know that they are defrauding the government by requiring campaign work and campaign money of Government employees; when we know that there are now only two cabinet officers at their posts, and that the public service is most grossly neglected through absenteeism in all its branches on electioneering service, the noise that has been made over three packages of Democratic mail matter by the fraudulent minions of a fraudulent administration is more ridicilous than burlesque fury.

Since the results of the Maine election have become definitely known Republicans here seem to have collapsed in the apathy of despair, realizing that the four years that they have eaten the dishonest bread of fraud are nearly ended, and that the great majority that elected Tilden will now sternly demand a vacation, under the management of Hancock of all their stolen places. Then I think we may hope for civil service reform, for no matter how great may be the rapacity for place and office among the Democrats, it will be impossible for them, lacking as they are in experience, to fill the departments with as many useless incompetent supernumeraries as have held place and drawn pay since the war. If the people of this country could only know the immense sums they are paying to thousands of elegant loafers, who do not work thirty minutes per day, civil service reform would be forced into prominence over all other issues. If, when the Democrats come in, they shall show the same ingenuity as Republicans have shown in making useless offices and bureaus, appointing incompetent assistants, male and female, to help the chiefs do nothing, I shall join the opposition.

The Republican organ of this city sounds a note of alarm this morning, with reference to Ohio, in a long and carefully written editorial. It concedes that there is danger of the state going against them in October, and gives reasons for the fear in long quotations from the Dayton Journal, one of the ablest of the Republican Journals.

With warning from Maine, with the half hearted support of Conkling, with dissensions in their own ranks, and mal management of Jewell, the Republican cause has never appeared gloomier. Nothing short of decided majorities in Indiana and Ohio can help the party that received National condemnation in the Centennial year.

HILTON.

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers should remember that a most important duty at this season is to look after the health of their families and cleanse the malaria and impurities from their systems. There is nothing that will tone up the stomach and liver, regulate the bowels, and purify the blood so perfectly as Parker's Ginger Tonic, advertised in our columns. The wonderful cures of long standing cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, and malarial disorders is the reason why this pure and excellent family medicine is so generally esteemed.—Post.

HOW TO GET almost Everything.

Do you know how to get in the easiest way and to best advantage what you want for dress and house-furnishing?

First, how: Write for a catalogue; see what you can learn from it about the things you want. If samples can be useful to you, ask for them and state your wants so plainly that exactly the right samples can be sent.

Second, where: The place where goods are kept in the greatest variety; where they are sold for what they really are in respect to quality; where prices are lowest; where most care is taken to serve customers acceptably; and where you have the right to return whatever is not satisfactory.

There—no matter where you are—if you make your wants known and avail yourself of your privileges, you will get the best things in the best way, promptly and without trouble or risk; sometimes by mail, sometimes by express, almost always at less cost for carriage than the money you save in the price.

Treasury Bookkeeping.

Without a change of Administration, the true state of the public debt and the real condition of the Treasury will never be known. And for the best of all reasons, because the republican leaders are interested in concealing both. They know that when the secrets now hidden are fully revealed, the tidal wave of 1874 which swept a majority of one hundred out of the House of Representatives, will appear as a calm compared with the storm of wrath that will scatter their corrupt organizations.

The act of Sept. 2, 1879, made the Register of the Treasury the bookkeeper of the government, viz.:

"To keep all accounts of the receipts and expenditures of the public money, and of all debts due to and from the United States."

All the vouchers and warrants are finally deposited in that office, and always were the basis of the statements of the public debt, and of the receipts and expenditures, until the new departure under Grant. Then the Secretary of the Treasury, in flagrant violation of law, assumed to revise all the accounts for a period of nearly forty years, and to publish exhibits of the public debt from his own office, to conform with changes which he ordered to be made.

To do this, balances were forced; figures were altered; and when these two resources failed, whole leaves were cut out of the great ledgers, so that no permanent record should exist. Does anybody believe these things were innocently done, or doubt that there was some extraordinary motive for acts every one of which was a forgery?

The Register of the Treasury at that time was indisposed to make the changes which would reconcile a discrepancy of more than two hundred millions of dollars as between what his books showed and what Mr. Boutwell had assumed to be the debt. But a short method was found of conquering the Register's scruples, as appears from the testimony of his successor, as follows:

"Q—You [Register Scofield] speak of the order from the Secretary to the Register, who, I believe, was Mr. Allison, to make the changes you have referred to in the debt statement. Will you give that committee that order? A—Yes, sir; this is the original order, and I will hand you a copy.

"Q—read us the original. A.—I will.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Nov 24, 1871.

"SIR: I have to request that the statement of the public debt on the 1st day of January in each of the years from 1791 to 1824, inclusive, and at various dates in subsequent years to July 1, 1870, as printed on page 236 of the finance report for 1870, may be omitted from your tables in the forthcoming reports, or else that it be corrected to conform to Table II, on page 25 for the same year.

"This request is made in consequence of a letter from the assistant secretary of the Treasury, now in London, who complains that these different tables are frequently referred to in England, and the discrepancies between them constantly and unfavorably commented upon.

"The table found on page 25 is, I believe, as nearly correct as the examination of the accounts up to the present time will enable it to be made, though I am under the impression there will be some change necessary in order to make it absolutely reliable. Very respectfully,

"J. H SAVILLE,
Chief Clerk.

"HON. JOHN ALLISON, Register of the Treasury.

"The letter is endorsed: 'Secretary of the Treasury; chief clerk; 24, 171. Asks statement of the public debt may made to correspond with statement made in Secretary's office Memorandum. As published for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, the statement is the same as the Secretary's.'"

Under this order official statements affecting the revenue collected, the cash in the treasury, the interest on the public debt, the expenditures for the navy, army, Indians, pensions, and other branches of the service were altered by tens of millions. And the public is asked to believe that these arbitrary and unprecedented alterations were made in good faith, and not to cover up corruption and stealing.

What would be thought of the safety of a public institution, bank or insurance company where the President ordered the book-keeper to make up a balance sheet from his figures, in direct conflict with those of the general ledger, and to erase the contradictions, and if necessary in order to destroy the evidence, to mutilate the books by cutting out the leaves?

This is what the Republicans have done in the Treasury, and in other departments. During Secor Robeson's expiring term in the navy the building was fired four different times in a few months, and once in the upper story, where the vouchers were filed away for safe keeping. These were convenient "accidents," of course, but they ought to have sent the man who inspired them to the penitentiary.

The pecuniary frauds under Grant were shocking, but they were mild compared with the Great Fraud by which the Presidency was stolen. This is a fit time to settle the accounts of both these villainies.—N. Y. Sun.

Health hope and happiness are restored by the use of Lydia E. Pinkhams Vegetable Compound. It is a positive cure for all those diseases from which women suffer so much. Send to Mrs Lydia E. Pinkham, 133 Western Avenue, for pamphlets.

Poultry Notes.

Heavy fowls sometimes receive severe injuries in trying to fly down from high perches.

Chickens are always healthier when they have plenty of sand and gravel about them.

Any family can keep fowls on their premises without more trouble, at merely nominal cost.

Breeding stock should be kept up to the full measures of their natural vigor but never forced beyond it.

One cannot reasonably expect to raise strong and healthy fowls if they are kept in a starved or neglected condition.

The molting of fowls is but a natural process with most animals in changing their summer coat for a winter one.

It will be well for those who are limited to a small garden to appropriate a portion of it to a grass plot for their fowls.

All kinds of feathered life seek the shade from the burning rays of the sun, and we should imitate nature by providing it in abundance.

A Good Housewife.

The good housewife when she is giving her house its spring renovating should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than many houses, and that their system needs cleansing by purifying the blood, and regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria and miasms, and she must know that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines.

A Pleasing Incident.

Loring, the Boston bookseller, tells a very romantic story, as follows: 'At one time I had prepared boxes of fancy paper with an initial or put name embossed on it, and I put this up at $1 a box and advertised it widely. One day I had an order from California from a Miss Susie ——. The box was done up and addressed to her, and lay about here, when a young Englishman came in an wanted to write a letter. I gave him the materials and a place in which to write, when his eye caught the address on the box.

"Have you the order that came for that box of paper?" he asked.

"Yes," I replied, "I have it about here somewhere."

"Would you mind to send it up to my hotel? If it is what I think, I shall leave for California to-night."

"I found it and sent it around and heard no more about it for three months, when one day the young man, with a lady on his arm, walked in.

"Mr. Loring, I want to present you to my wife," he said. We could not leave this country till we thanked you for your part in bringing us together.

"The denouement was quite a romance, the young man was the son of an aristocratic family, and the girl the daughter of the gardner. But love levels all distinctions, and the young man felt this girl to be the chosen companion of his life To break off the attachment his father had sent him to the Continent and dispatched the gardner and his pretty daughter to America, where the young man had followed them, ignorant of their address, and at last finding it through the chance of the box of paper.

Why is a baby like wheat? Because it is first cradled, then thrashed and finally becomes the flower of the family. And we would add, Soothe it with Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. It contains no opiates.

The tabulation of the wealth, debt and taxation of the State of Ohio has just been finished by the Census Bureau. It shows a large increase in the valuation since 1870, a moderate increase in taxation, and a marked increase in the debt, the latter being almost exclusively in the large cities. The grand total of "local indebtedness in 1880 is $44,654,168, against $12,509,910 in 1870. The total assessed valuation of the State is $1,547,746,600 against $1,167,731,697 in 1870.

Warranted not to contain a single particle of mercury, or any injurious or mineral substance, but to consist entirely of medical matter purely vegetable, which is the reason Simmon's Liver Regulator is so effectual, yet so harmless.

"I write you to certify that I have used Dr. Simmons' Liver Regulator in my family with complete success."

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM.
OF LYNN, MASS.

DISCOVERER OF
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.
The Positive Cure
For all Female Complaints.

This preparation, as its name signifies, consists of Vegetable Properties that are harmless to the most delicate invalid. Upon one trial the merits of this Compound will be recognized, as relief is immediate; and when its use is continued, in ninety-nine cases in a hundred, a permanent cure is effected. Thousands will testify. On account of its proven merits, it is to-day recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country.

It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

In fact it has proved to be the great est and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach.

It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of Lozenges, on receipt of price, $1.00, per box, for either. Mrs. PINKHAM freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this paper.

SIXTH NORMAL SCHOOL DISTRICT.
Bloomsburg, Columbia County, Pennsylvania.
Rev. D. J. WALLER, Jr., Ph. D., Principal.

THIS SCHOOL, as at present constituted, offers the very best facilities for Professional and classical training.

Buildings spacious, inviting and commodious; conveniently located by steam; well ventilated, lighted by gas, and furnished with a beautiful assortment of pure, soft spring water.

Location beautiful, and easy of access. Teachers experienced, efficient, and alive to their work. Discipline, firm but kind, uniform and thorough. Expenses moderate. Fifty cents a week deducted from all not expecting to teach. Students admitted at any time. Rooms reserved when desired.

Courses of study prescribed by the state:

I. Model School. II. Preparatory. III. Elementary. IV. Classical.

Adjunct Courses: I. Academic. II. Commercial. III. Course in Music. IV. Course in Art. V. Course in Physical Culture.

The Elementary, Scientific and Classical Courses are the regular ones, leading therein, to state Diplomas, conferring the following corresponding degrees: Master of the Elementary, Master of the Sciences; Master of the Classics. Graduates in the other Courses receive Normal Certificates of their attainments, signed by the officers of the Board of Trustees.

The course of study is certified by the Superintendent of Common Schools, and the Boards and Normal Committees are not inferior to those of our best Colleges.

The Music department is under the charge of an able teacher. The Fine Arts are taught in all the courses. The Classical course affords a thorough preparation for the best Colleges and Universities. The Normal course is designed to prepare teachers for the profession, and the Commercial for business, and their claims to patronage.

To accommodate persons who are employed during the day, instruction is given in the evening, when they desire to improve their time in the Preparatory, Commercial, Music and Art departments.

The Elementary course affords excellent opportunities for young persons of small attainments and limited pecuniary means, to prepare themselves for teaching, or for the higher courses.

The Model School affords excellent practice in developing their powers, and excellent opportunities for well paid labor after leaving School. For Catalogue, address the President,

HON. WILLIAM HAWELL, President Board of Trustees.

THE GREAT MEXICAN REMEDY.
Thousands suffering from Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Scrofula and kindred diseases, will hail with delight this new and wonderful discovery, which as a disease conqueror and health restorer, has no equal in modern medicine. The Great Mexican Remedy was first introduced into California in 1859, where in a few months it effected so many wonderful cures as to create a demand for the medicine from Maine to Florida. It is the only medicine in the world compounded from the native plants, roots and herbs of Mexico. It cures all blood, liver, and kidney disorders, from the worst scrofula, to a common blotch, pimple, or eruption, while it clears and beautifies the complexion. In diseases of the stomach, Blood, Liver and Kidneys it has permanently cured thousands of hopeless cases where all other known remedies had failed. One dose will cure any case of Sick Headache. Two doses will break up any ordinary cough or cold. Persons suffering with Heartburn, Waterbrash, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Low Spirits, and kindred affections, will find the Mexican Remedy a sweet and sure relief. The genuine is placed before the public, under the following name:

Herbaline Bitters the Great Mexican Remedy.

Call on your druggist and get a bottle of the Mexican Remedy, and convince yourself that it is the best Medicine in the World.
